

Privacy Policy

Radical Ecology is subject to English data protection legislation in respect of the personal information you submit to us, or which we collect.

1. Who we are

This website is operated by Radical Ecology. Radical Ecology is referred to in this Privacy Notice as “us” or “we” and you can contact us using the details set out in paragraph 10 below. In this policy we describe the types of personal data which we collect and the uses which we make of it.

2. What is personal data?

Personal data includes all information held in electronic form or manually in a structured filing system relating to a living individual who can be identified from that data (or from that data and other information in our possession) and includes personal contact information and images, such as from CCTV.

3. What personal data do we hold?

We hold personal data which you provide to us – for example;

Supporters / Donors / Audiences

If you support us, for example make a donation, or purchase tickets for an event, we will usually collect:

Contact Details

- Name
- Address
- Phone number

- Email address
- Bank or credit card details
- Gift Aid status (for donations)

Interests / Events

- Information you provide us about your interests, including the type of news stories you are interested in
- A record of the events you have attended

Website and Communication Usage

- How you use our website and whether you open or forward our communications, including information collected through cookies and other tracking technologies (refer to our Cookie Policy)

If you are attending a Radical Ecology event we may also on occasion ask you about your access requirements, dietary preferences or other details.

Newsletter sign-up

If you sign up to receive our newsletter, we will usually collect:

Contact Details

- Name
- Email address
- Interests / Events

Information you provide us about your interests, including the type of news stories you are interested in.

Visits to our site

When visiting our site, we may automatically collect the following information:

Technical information, including:

- the Internet protocol (IP) address used to connect your computer to the Internet
- your login information
- browser type and version
- time zone setting
- browser plug-in types and versions
- operating system and platform
- information about your visit, including the full Uniform Resource Locators (URL) clickstream to, through and from our site (including date and time)
- products you viewed or searched for
- page response times
- download errors
- length of visits to certain pages
- page interaction information (such as scrolling, clicks, and mouse-overs), and methods used to browse away from the page and any phone number used to call our customer service number.

Cookies

Our website uses cookies to distinguish you from other users of our website. This helps us to provide you with a good experience when you browse our website and also allows us to improve our site.

In addition, we may collect the following personal data from other sources:

We may receive information about you if you use any of the other websites we operate or the other services we provide. We are also working closely with third parties including, for example, artists, sub-contractors in technical, payment and delivery services, advertising networks, analytics providers, search information providers and may receive information about you from them.

We may also combine information from other sources with the information you have provided us with the aim of understanding our audiences and delivering the highest quality experience of our activities.

The sort of information we obtain from these sources might include details of other charities you may support and indicators of your leisure interests and financial status.

Where we use this data, we will always ensure that we are entitled to by reviewing the privacy notice of that third party to ensure that it informs people that their data may be passed to us.

4. Purposes for which personal data is used

We use your personal data for the following purposes:

- Ensure we know how you prefer to be contacted
- We use your personal information to provide you with the information, services, or products you ask for
- We may also use your personal information for other purposes which we specifically notify you about and, where appropriate, obtain your consent
- To ensure that you receive relevant and personalised communications, we will use your data to create an individual customer profile. This may include data you have provided, or which is generated by your use of Radical Ecology information, for example contact details, preferences, donor history, and online behaviour

- To allow you to participate in interactive features of our service, when you choose to do so
- To measure or understand the effectiveness of advertising we serve to you and others, and to deliver relevant advertising to you
- To make suggestions and recommendations to you and other users of our site about goods or services that may interest you or them.

Building profiles and targeting communications

We use profiling techniques to ensure communications are relevant and timely, and to provide an improved experience to our supporters and visitors. Profiling also allows us to target our resources effectively.

We do this because it allows us to understand the background of the people who support us and helps us to make appropriate requests to supporters. Importantly it enables us to provide you with communications that are better suited to you while raising more funds, sooner, and more cost-effectively, than we otherwise would.

When building a profile, we may analyse geographic, demographic and other information relating to you in order to better understand your interests and preferences in order to contact you with the most relevant communications. In doing this, we may use additional information from third party sources when it is available. Such information is compiled using publicly available data about you, for example Companies House, listed Directorships or typical earnings in a given area. All this type of profiling is done under our internal processes and procedures that ensure we have the correct permissions to do so.

We may also use this information to help us determine whether and in what ways you might be interested in getting involved in our other fundraising activities.

5. Legitimate interests for the use of your data

We use your personal data, as permitted by the General Data Protection Regulation, where necessary for the following legitimate business interests:

- Supporter care – to respond to enquiries
- To carry out our obligations arising from any contracts entered into between you and us
- We use your personal information to claim Gift Aid on your donations
- We use your information to keep a record of your relationship with us and for internal administrative purposes (such as our accounting and records), and to let you know about changes to our services or policies
- We use your personal information to investigate and respond to, complaints, legal claims or other issues
- To administer our site and for internal operations, including troubleshooting, data analysis, testing, research, statistical and survey purposes
- To improve our site to ensure that content is presented in the most effective manner for you and for your computer
- As part of our efforts to keep our site safe and secure.

6. Disclosure of personal data to third-parties

We will not sell your details to any third parties, but we may sometimes share your information with our trusted service providers who are authorised to act on our behalf, our trading companies, and associated organisations who work on our behalf, or whom we work with in partnership.

Our service providers are sometimes based outside of the European Economic Area (EEA), in these instances we will work to make sure their operations are in accordance with GDPR.

The selected third parties include:

Business partners, suppliers and sub-contractors for the performance of any contract we enter into with you.

Advertisers and advertising networks that require the data to select and serve relevant adverts to you and others. We do not disclose information about identifiable individuals to our advertisers, but we may provide them with aggregate information about our users (for example, we may inform them that 500 men aged under 30 have clicked on their advertisement on any given day). We may also use such aggregate information to help advertisers reach the kind of audience they want to target (for example, women in SW1). We may make use of the personal data we have collected from you to enable us to comply with our advertisers' wishes by displaying their advertisement to that target audience.

Analytics and search engine providers that assist us in the improvement and optimisation of our site.

If we are under a duty to disclose or share your personal data in order to comply with any legal obligation, or in order to enforce or apply our terms of use and other agreements; or to protect the rights, property, or safety of Radical Ecology, our customers, or others. This includes exchanging information with other companies and organisations for the purposes of fraud protection and credit risk reduction.

NHS Test and Trace.

We have a responsibility to share your contact details with the NHS Test and Trace service if required, as a result of someone who has tested positive for COVID-19 having listed the galleries as a place they recently visited, or because the galleries have been identified as the location of a local outbreak of COVID-19. NHS Test and Trace provide assurance that they will only ever use the data provided to them for this specific public health purpose, and that they will handle the data in line with the highest ethical and security standards.

Other artistic organisations and venues

We work with other trusted artistic organisations and venues to share our work with the widest possible audience and many of our live programmes are held offsite in partnership with, and ticketed by, our partner venues. In these instances, you are subject to their Privacy Policy, Cookies and Terms & Conditions.

7. Retention of personal data

We will only retain your personal data for as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes we collected it for, including for the purposes of satisfying any legal, accounting, or reporting requirements. Accordingly, except in respect of provenance data, we use the following criteria to determine the period for which we retain your personal data:

- the period for which the personal information is required for the applicable purposes set out in this Privacy Policy; or
- any statutory limitation period relevant to the personal information; or
- any statutory or regulatory retention period applicable to the personal information.

8. Access and control of personal data

In certain circumstances, you have the following rights under data protection laws:

- access to your personal data;
- rectification of your its personal data;

- restricting the use of your personal data;
- erasure of your personal data; and/or
- objecting to the processing of your personal data.

The circumstances in which you may take any of the above actions are set out in the General Data Protection Regulation.

You also have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority and, where we request your consent to process your personal data, to withdraw consent at any time by contacting us using the details set out in section 10 below.

9. How do we keep your personal information safe?

We ensure that there are appropriate technical controls in place to protect your personal details. For example, our online forms are always encrypted and our network is protected and routinely monitored.

We undertake regular reviews of who has access to information that we hold to ensure your information is only accessible by appropriately trained staff on a 'need to know' basis and for the communicated purposes only.

Although data transmission over the Internet or website cannot be guaranteed to be secure, we and our business partners work hard to maintain physical, electronic and procedural safeguards to protect your information in accordance with applicable data protection requirements.

The data that we collect from you may be transferred to, and stored at, a destination outside the European Economic Area ("EEA"). It may also be processed by staff operating outside the EEA who work for us or for one of our suppliers. Such staff maybe engaged in, among other things, the fulfilment of your order, the processing of your payment details and the provision of support services. By submitting your personal data, you agree to this transfer, storing or processing. We will take all steps reasonably necessary to ensure that your data is treated securely and in accordance with this Privacy Policy.

All information you provide to us is stored on our secure servers. Any payment transactions will be encrypted (using SSL technology). Where we have given you (or where you have chosen) a password which enables you to access certain parts of our site, you are responsible for keeping this password confidential. We ask you not to share a password with anyone.

10. How to contact us

If you have any questions about our use of your personal data, please contact us using the details below:

Attn: The Data Co-Ordinator

Email: studio@radicalecology.earth

11. Changes to this policy

We may update this Privacy Notice from time to time to reflect changes to our usage of personal data.